Kansas City Attractions and Members Offer Fall and Holiday Deals and New Experiences for Residents and Visitors

(Kansas City, Missouri) – The fall and holiday season is a great time for local Kansas City residents and out of town guests to visit its many attractions and take advantage of special offers. Several members of the Greater Kansas City Attractions Association (GKCAA), a not-forprofit organization that provides benefits and services to more than 70 attraction and tourismrelated businesses in both Kansas and Missouri, are opening special exhibits, scheduling season festivals, celebrations and performances for visitors and locals during the summer season.

“As the weather cools off and the holidays approach, visitors should know that the next several months are a great time to visit Kansas City and experience everything it has to offer,” said Mike Vietti, Director of Marketing, Communications and Guest Services for the National World War I Museum and Memorial who serves as the 2017 President of the association’s volunteerled board of directors. “Our attractions offer a variety of opportunities that visitors and locals alike will enjoy during this special time of year.”

October

National World War I Museum and Memorial

The World Remembers (open until November 11, 2017)

More than 9 million combatants from the belligerent nations died in World War I, the largest number of any conflict in world history to that time. The World Remembers is an international education project whose purpose is to remember and honor these combatants during each year of the war by displaying their names in more than 60 locations throughout Europe and North America for a period of six weeks ending with the Western Front Armistice Day of Nov. 11. For 1917, more than 700,000 names of soldiers from 14 nations will appear. Accompanying the names are images of soldiers and civilians caught up in a global conflict. The Museum is serving as the only U.S. location for this moving display.

Hallmark Visitors Center

Norman Rockwell's Christmas: Original Art for Hallmark Cards (October 7, 2017 – January 27, 2018)

Hallmark Cards has a remarkable legacy of collaboration with some of the world's most renowned artists and designers. Perhaps none of these is more beloved than the American illustrator Norman Rockwell, whom Hallmark founder J.C. Hall commissioned to produce 32 paintings for the company's greeting cards between 1948 to 1957.

The exhibition presents 45 paintings and drawings for the artist's popular Christmas cards. Seen here together for the first time, this exhibition of works from the Hallmark Art Collection provides a rare opportunity to view the meticulous craftsmanship that set Rockwell apart from his peers.

Included are small "thumbnail" sketches and photographic studies that document Rockwell's intensive creative process. Also on view are Rockwell's iconic painting The Kansas City Spirit and his rarely exhibited portrait of Grandma Moses, another artist whom J.C. Hall enlisted for Christmas cards. Together with his Christmas paintings, they reveal the remarkable relationship between Rockwell and Hallmark Cards, a story further elaborated by vintage Hallmark products, archival photographs, and original correspondence between Norman Rockwell and J.C. Hall.

Kemper Museum of Contemporary Art

"The Outwin: American Portraiture Today" (October 5, 2017 - Sunday, January 7, 2018)

Every three years, the Smithsonian National Portrait Gallery invites artists across America to investigate the art of portraiture through the Outwin Boochever Portrait Competition. Established in 2006, it is the premier national competition celebrating excellence and innovation in portraiture. For the resulting exhibition, The Outwin: American Portraiture Today, jurors selected 43 winning works from more than 2,500 entries. The artists tackle some of the most pressing topics in the cultural and political realms, including investigations of race and gender, the fragility of childhood in our increasingly complicated world, and the psychological impact of migration. With the current presentation, the Portrait Gallery is launching the first national tour in which the Kemper Museum of Contemporary Art is the only Midwest venue.

Playing for Keeps: The VFW Marble Tournaments, 1947-1962

November 11, 2017 – January 6, 2019

Marble playing ruled playgrounds for much of the twentieth century. Requiring only a handful of marbles and a patch of dirt, the game crossed all economic and social barriers. In 1947, the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) created a national marble tournament to positively influence young boys and re-engage WWII and Korean War veterans in civilian life. The tournament, an annual event for 14 years, was a life-changing experience for the thousands of kids who participated. Playing for Keeps tells the firsthand stories of the players alongside their souvenirs, trophies, and marble memorabilia. Learn their stories and then knuckle down to experience the thrill of the game in a regulation-size marble ring.

Two special events are being held in conjunction with the exhibit

☐ Meet the Experts: The VFW Marble Tournaments (Sunday, November 12, 2017)

☐ Get to know the experts at The National Museum of Toys and Miniatures through this monthly exploration of special topics. On November 12 from 2:00 p.m. – 3:00 p.m., author Scott McBride will discuss the game of marbles and the stories of tournament participants featured in T/m's new temporary exhibit. The program includes a lecture and gallery visit. Included with museum admission.

□ Day After Thanksgiving Program: Magic Marbles (Friday, November 24)

It's a day of marble magic with fun for the entire family. Explore the museum's special exhibit from 10:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m., and try your hand at “knuckling down” during a marble lesson. Then, pick out your own marble and turn it into a piece of wearable art to take home with you.
