Kansas City Attractions and Members Offer Fall Events and Experiences for Residents and Visitors

(Kansas City, Missouri) – When the air is crisp and the weather begins to cool, both locals and visitors appreciate the variety of activities and events that Kansas City's many attractions have to offer.

Several members of the Greater Kansas City Attractions Association (GKCAA), a not-for-profit organization that provides benefits and services to 75 attraction and tourism-related businesses in both Kansas and Missouri, are opening special exhibits, scheduling seasonal events, celebrations and performances for visitors and locals during the fall and holiday seasons.

"Visitors should experience what the our local residents already know; that fall is a great time to visit the Kansas City area," said Angie Jefferies, director of communications for Jackson County who serves and president of the association's volunteer-led board of directors.

"Our attractions offer a variety of opportunities that visitors and locals alike will enjoy during this special time of year."
